Sanauli excavations and discoveries are considered as the most stunning and unique discoveries of this century as they establish Mahabharat and Vedic age pre-iron age – going back to 2000 BC. The discoveries of Chariot, helmet, shield, torch at Sanauli are the first discoveries in Indian sub-continent and perhaps oldest in the world.

The man behind it, who led the Sanauli excavations is an archaeologist of international repute – Dr. Sanjay Kumar Manjul, Joint Director General, The Archaeological Survey of India. He has stirred the world of archaeologists like no one else.

He is delivering the NMA-Atal Bihari Vajpayee Memorial Lecture on 'Chariot of Sanauli – that crushes the Aryan invasion theory for ever.'

You are kindly requested to attend the programme. A line in confirmation will be highly appreciated.
